

UHCLTeach

Inspiring Teachers of Math and Science

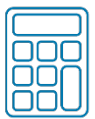

Enhance your degree in Biology or Mathematics by enrolling in a new, innovative program that provides you with multiple career opportunities. Not only will you earn a degree in math or science, but you will also earn a certification to teach along with leadership and presentation skills that will enhance your value to any employer.

UHCLTeach is a replica of the highly successful UTeach program from the University of Texas at Austin and is designed to better prepare and support highly qualified secondary math and science teachers. During the course of this program, you will get to experience teaching early in your college career. All courses are specifically focused on math and science and use inquiry-based approaches.
